

The Daily Astorian
ASTORIA, OREGON:

FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1883

The Queen of the Pacific is due this morning.

Brick are worth $20 a thousand at Snohomish.

This is the day when every one has a "little bill."

Memorial day was grandly observed in Portland.

J. O. Spencer, of Clifton, has been appointed a notary public by Gov. Moody.

Sun rises, 4:38; sun sets, 7:16; days length, 14 hours 38 minutes; high water 9:18 a. m., 9:39 p. m.

The Astoria gas light company expect to have everything in readiness to turn gas through the mains next week.

The Clara Parker goes up stream to-day to tow a raft of logs to Skamokawa, and then down the Ark from Bunker Hill, which is the classic appellation of Weidner's mill near Oak Point.

The Main street wharf is fast filling up with salmon. Charges for the Emma T. Crockett and Ulloka are being stored away. The Miles is bringing up 2,000 cases from the Aberdeen Packing company of Ilwaco.

A fine portrait of Mrs. J. C. Trullinger in Hansen's window, opposite the Astorian office, attracts attention. It is from the gifted pencil of Mrs. Mary Achey, who is about to establish an art studio at this place.

The State Teachers' Association for 1883 has been appointed to meet in Salem on the 26th inst., and will continue in session on the 27, 28 and 29. Teachers and friends of education in all parts of the state are invited to attend and take part in the discussions.

Work on the Odd Fellows' building is about completed. Filling in from the foundation to within seven feet of the basement ceiling goes on, and when a few minor details have been finished, the first brick structure and the finest building in Astoria will be ready for occupancy.

It is now an assured fact that Alfred Anderson, the fratricide, must hang. On Monday the Supreme Court, in session at Salem, sustained the judgment of the lower court, and this leaves no loop-hole for escape, except through the leniency of the Governor, who can commute his sentence to life imprisonment.

A San Francisco dispatch says, in connection with the purchase made by Captain Besser, of New Bedford, Mass., at Coos Bay, it is stated that the purchasing parties intend building a railroad from Coos Bay to connect with the Oregon and California lines at Roseburg. A line of steamers from the bay and San Francisco will be put on. Captain Besser has also bought the Empire City mill and 5,000 acres of land.

J. H. Smith, of Harrisburg, Linn county, died at his residence in that place last Saturday. Mr. Smith was well known throughout the state. He has been a citizen of Oregon from his early boyhood. In 1876 he was elected state senator to represent his county, and showed marked ability as a legislator. He was a man of good talents and possessed considerable influence as a local politician. He was a brother-in-law of Dr. A. C. Kinney, of this city.

Governor Wm. A. Newell, president of the Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor Railroad Company, signed a contract yesterday to issue bonds to William Graves, of New York, amounting to two million dollars, to secure funds for the construction of a railroad to connect Gray's Harbor with Puget Sound, and to run steamers to connect it with the Northern Pacific at Seattle. The money for these bonds is assured, provided the railroad company fulfills its portion of the agreement.

Yesterday John Muir, superintendent of traffic, received bills of lading for the iron ferry boat, to be used by the Northern Pacific railroad between Kalama and Lenore, the point on the Oregon shore, directly opposite. It was shipped by sailing vessels in sections on the 15th inst. The boat was modeled after plans prepared by John Gates, chief engineer of the river division of the O. R. & N. Co., and will have a capacity of 30 loaded cars at one trip. She will be the largest ferry boat in the United States, except one—the Solano, owned by the Central Pacific and plying between Benicia and Port Costa, Oregonian, St.

A Curiosity. A. M. Johnson & Co. have on exhibition a Cracker made 90 years B.C. Samples for sale at low rates. But for Heavens sake don't say we told you.

Attention Good Templars! There will be a degree meeting held this Friday evening at Pythian Hall. All degree members in good standing are earnestly requested to be present. Sejourning Bros. are cordially invited to attend. By order of Lodge Deputy, Astoria, May 1, 1883.

Cruise of the Corwin.

The United States revenue cutter Thos. Corwin, Capt. Healey commander, arrived in yesterday afternoon to coal and take on further supplies.

Capt. Healey reports heavy winds dead ahead all the way from San Francisco whence he sailed May 23rd. His present visit was compulsory, as he expected to have had coal enough to take him to Nainaimo. The Corwin will make a long trip this time; the Captain doesn't expect to get back before November 1st. He has orders to go direct to Harrisburg and straighten out some squabble between American and English miners there. From thence he goes to Oonalasah, up St. Lawrence Bay, and swing away to Point Barrow, which will be the most northern point visited.

The Corwin was gayly festooned with cabbages and other anti-scorbutic vegetables, and the hold is jammed full of all manner of tricks and notions; presents for the Tehuck Indians who rendered good service to the unfortunate crew of the Rogers who was wrecked on that bleak coast. Lieutenant Stoney has charge of that department, he was on board the Rogers at the time, and is personally acquainted with the wants of his savage benefactors. He has clothing, rifles, cooking utensils, beads, and all manner of stuff for the delighted residents of that far-off shore.

The Corwin liberally replenished her depleted stock of modern literature at THE ASTORIAN office and swung seaward at sunset.

Not Pertinent.

"All roads lead to Rome." The discussion relative to the fitness or unfitness of Portland's chief of police drugs in the name of a man who has been a few votes of being U. S. Senator from this state. The Oregonian in a characteristic manner embraces the opportunity afforded by the exposure of Leppens' alleged desertion to get in a lick at the man whose fight was lost last Fall. The Nova in reply makes an excellent point in stating that the one case has nothing to do with the other. At present Leppens, and he alone, is the subject of discussion, and it will become a matter of judgment and the slightest pretensions to fairness to attempt any defense by outside implication or covert sneer at a defeated foe.

A New York dispatch says the loss of the Orade, near the northeast coast of Tierra Del Fuego, is instructive for navigators doubling Cape Horn. Sailing directions for doubling Cape Horn have been almost as confused as seas washing that stormy headland, so that it is no wonder its perils have not been reduced. The disastrous experience of the Orade points to the advisability of sailing ships standing further to the southward, in the equinoctial months at least, than most seamen seem willing to do on the eastward passage. In March and April, the autumn months in Australian latitudes, when the Antarctic ice outflow is diminishing, it would seem less perilous to risk the ice of higher southern latitudes than the rocks and cyclones of Tierra Del Fuego.

Yesterday afternoon a party of Chinese aeronauts launched a "kite" from Custom house square. This "kite" is a complicated system of floats that bears the same relation to a common, ordinary, every-day, Caucasian kite that an ocean steamship does to a skiff. It is a monstrous affair that takes twelve or fourteen able-bodied Mongolians to start it fair, and when it goes sailing aloft into the empyrean azure it looks like a bristling dragon spitting chronos at the afflicted multitude beneath. It formed a holiday for Chinatown and when the whole business at length worked to their satisfaction, and the many-jointed affair was successfully elevated, they all turned loose with the nearest approach to "three cheers and a tiger," that we have ever heard the Chinese throat emit.

Two-Thirds of a Bottle Cures. Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have been taking your "Favorite Prescription" for "female weakness." Before I had taken it two days I began to feel stronger. I have taken but two-thirds of a bottle and believe I am cured.

Gratefully, Mrs. H. C. Lovett, Wataska, Ill.

Spoopendyke.

Spoopendyke came home one night bringing a small bundle in his arms. "It is a printing press, on which I expect to do all my own printing hereafter," he said.

"Oh, but isn't that lovely!" flattered Mrs. Snoopendyke, dropping the stork and rushing to her husband's side, "and can't we do the loveliest things with it! It is the kind that the Herald and Sun and all these papers are printed with."

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Snoopendyke," growled her husband, "you've hit it exactly. This is the very kind. I got Mr. Bennett to kindly try it on, so as to get it the same size as the Herald is printed on."

"And will you print papers with yours like Mr. Bennett and the other editors?" continued Mrs. Snoopendyke timidly.

"Oh, but won't I though!" yelled her husband. "It needed a dodgier female idiot to think that; you've struck the proper plan."

"Think you can print a 32x60 show bill with a 324 press! Well, I tell you that you can't. Can you get it into your measly head that this is a card press, and can only print a card three inches by four inches?"

"Oh, it's a card press, is it?" ventured Mrs. Snoopendyke; "then you can print those beautiful Christmas cards on it, can't you?"

"Now you've got it," yelled her husband, "that's the idea. It prints in thirty-five different colors at one impression, and any design, from the picture of an old crank with a sealskin overcoat, loading round somebody's chimney with a game-bag full of jumping jacks, to the New Year, 1883, represented by a humpbacked baby dressed in a broad grin, with a napkin tied round his waist, driving out the old year, dressed as an old tramp with a mowing machine and a gallon jug of whisky under his arm. That is the idea exactly. Think you can print chromos and lithographs on it, don't you? Well you can't. You can only print one color, and that is black. Think you grasp it now?"

"Well," said Mrs. Snoopendyke, "I suppose you can print visiting cards on it?"

"Yes, Mrs. Snoopendyke, I can," said her husband, in a softer tone, and he began in a much better humor as he proceeded to show his wife the press and exhibit his dexterity in the use of the type and the press.

At last he got his wife's name set up in type, and proceeded to put the chase on the press with a grand flourish. But in an evil hour he had forgotten to key it up, and at a touch the whole business went to pi, and at the next fell in a confused mass all over the carpet.

"Why, what makes it do that?" said Mrs. Snoopendyke, laughing.

"What makes it do that, Mrs. S?" sneered her husband as he hit his head on a corner of a table in a mad dive after the type. "What d'ye s'pose makes it do it?"

"What makes anything do anything? If I had your talent for asking idiotic questions I'd get a glass of beer and a three-inch paper collar, and live out as a prosecuting attorney."

By this time the worthy gentleman had got the name set up and securely fastened and was printing with great gusto; but he had, unfortunately, set the types in wrong order, and the first eight performed visiting cards came out like the following:

When Mrs. Snoopendyke saw it she set up a little scream, "Oh, isn't that funny, though? What makes it wrong side up?"

"Funny?" howled her husband, with horrid derision, as he grasped the situation. "It's a perfect thunderbolt of fun. It is the most delicious humorous thing of the century. All you need is an advertisement of liver pills on the cover, and a joke about a goat on the first page, to be a comic almanac. With your appreciation of humor, all you need is a broad grin and $3,000 worth of stolen diamonds, to be the leading comedienne of the American boards. Can't you see the measly type's turned wrong? They have only got to be turned round the other way."

After half an hour of diligent labor the types were again in position, securely keyed up, and put on the press.

When the final arrangements were completed, Mr. Snoopendyke turned round to wink at the baby, and incautiously left his thumb over the edge of the press. As luck would have it, Mrs. Snoopendyke, in her anxiety to show how well she understood and appreciated the press, brought the lever down and the press closed on that gentleman's thumb, making him jump four feet high, and utter an exclamation that would have made the second lieutenant of a company of pirates blush. "Dodgier the measly printing press," he shrieked, as he smashed the base burner with it, and then threw it in the alley. "Haven't you got any sense scarcely? Why don't you go on with the entertainment! The measly thing only got so far as the bone. Why don't you finish the chapter?"

And Mr. Snoopendyke danced up stairs, five at a time, with a parting injunction for his wife to hire out for a slaughter-house.

"Well," said Mrs. Snoopendyke, as she picked up the baby and put a pitcher of water where her husband would be sure to fall over it when he went down stairs in the morning. "If we have so much trouble in printing one word, I wonder how Mr. Bennett gets along with a whole newspaper to print."
